European troop cut talks resume

VIENNA (UPI) — The Warsaw Pact powers and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization resumed negotiations today on troop cuts in Central Europe but failed to break a 14-month-old deadlock.

"Both sides reviewed their previous positions," Ambassador Ingo Oser, head of the East German delegation, told a news conference after the 55-minute meeting.

A Western spokesman said "no new proposals were made."

Critics win

LONDON (UPI) — Willie Hamilton, Labor member of Parliament and long-time critic of the British royal family, is the author of a book assailing that institution which was scheduled for release today.

The book is coming out after Lord Snowdon failed in a last-ditch attempt Wednesday to halt its publication through a court suit.

Grayson says controls 'disastrous'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — C. Jackson Grayson, who headed the Nixon administration's price control effort, said Wednesday that return to such controls "would be disastrous" to the U.S. economy.

He said that inflation would continue, and predicted that by the end of the year there would be new pressure for controls, warning against giving in to it.

"Controls breed controls. This is a dangerous trend toward more government regulation and intervention," Grayson said in a speech to 3,000 delegates to a meeting of the American National Cattlemen's Association.

Thieu ready to ask for $300 million

SAIGON (Chicago Daily News) — South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu today said he is prepared to go to the United States to plead for an additional $300 million in military aid to South Vietnam.

"If necessary, I would not hesitate to go to the U.S.," said the 52-year-old chief executive, adding: "Most of the people of South Vietnam have begun to believe that they are being abandoned by the U.S. and that perhaps the U.S. has been lured by the Communists."

Amtrak chief

CHICAGO (UPI) — Paul H. Reistrup, 42, senior vice president of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad, has been appointed president and chief executive officer of Amtrak.

Reistrup is a veteran railroad man. He will succeed retiring Roger Lewis on March 1 as head of the semi-public corporation which operates most of the United States' passenger train service.

Chase bank cuts prime rate to 9%

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chase Manhattan Bank today dropped its interest rate for prime business loans to 9 percent from 9 1/2 percent, making it the lowest prime rate in the country.

U.S. Trust Co. of New York dropped its prime rate to 9 1/4 percent Wednesday but most big commercial banks were still at 9 1/2 percent and some at 9 3/4 percent.

Dean scores

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Watergate conspirator John Dean will receive about $13,500 for a three-day speaking tour of college campuses in Virginia and West Virginia starting Sunday.

Dean was released from prison Jan. 8 after serving a four-month term for his role in the Watergate scandal. His fees range from $3,000 to $4,000 for four addresses.

Burns sees no federal credit easing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns indicated today there will be no immediate, massive easing of federal credit to aid the staggering American economy.

"As long as I am chairman, we will not release a new wave of inflation on this country," he told the House Ways and Means Committee in its hearings on proposed income tax cuts.

Pilot union won't fly hazardous cargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Line Pilots Association said today its 32,000 members will refuse, beginning Saturday, to fly passenger airliners carrying hazardous cargoes.

Ford extends clemency panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will extend the life of the Clemency Board for another month because of the heavy influx of new applicants, board chairman Charles E. Goodell said today.

Goodell said the formal announcement will be made later today, one day before the program was scheduled to expire.

Goodell said he thought between 5,000 and 6,000 applicants would apply, out of the 100,000 eligible. He said about 80 percent of the applications have come this month and the board is hopeful an extension will bring more applicants.

So far, Ford has acted on 65 cases. Twenty received outright pardons and about one third of the rest were required to serve three months of alternative service.

Goodell said he talked with Ford about the extension on Tuesday and the President "was inclined to extend the program for a month."

While House officials said Wednesday Ford would probably make his decision known today and indicated the President had chosen to extend the board's life because of a surge in applications in recent weeks.

Goodell had urged Ford to extend the program for six months. However, he said, Ford "feels these ought to be some kind of finality so that it doesn't go on forever."

Goodell said he urged the extension because many men eligible for amnesty or clemency are just finding out about the program, under which they can get pardons by the President or conditional pardons after serving a maximum of 24 months in public service work.

Goodell, a former Republican senator from New York who was an ardent Vietnam war critic, discussed the clemency program on the NBC Today Show during a unique discussion with three members of the Vietnam War Veterans Exile Association. Goodell was in NBC's New York studios, while the three men were in a television studio in Toronto.

Goodell said he has "great respect" for those men "who oppose and resisted on principle." But, he said, "I'm not in the business of trying to persuade anyone to come back from Canada. We just want to be sure that they understand what the program is and how it is handled."

Anti-bomb guard tightens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government tightened security at federal buildings around the nation today because of Wednesday's $500,000 bombing of the State Department and a bungled explosive attempt in Oakland, Calif. — apparently by radicals.

"We regret these security steps are necessary, because it may bring some temporary inconveniences to federal employees," said Arthur

F. Sampson, head of the General Services Administration.

"But our overriding concern is for the safety of these employees and the public."

The "Weather Underground" claimed responsibility for the State Department blast early Wednesday morning and said it planned a bomb found later in the ceiling of the military induction center in Oakland. There were no injuries.

Sampson said patrols of federal buildings and parking areas — especially in Washington — will be increased, packages carried into buildings will be examined and entrances to federal buildings will be locked except where manned by GSA guards.

Sampson also said today initial estimates showed the State Department blast caused $500,000 in damages.

FBI Director Clarence Kelley announced an intensive investigation into the incidents — including bomb threats at several federal buildings in Washington.

In a statement Wednesday night, Kelley did not dispute the claim by the Left Wing group, which denounced U.S. military aid to South Vietnam and Cambodia in anonymous telephone calls and letters.

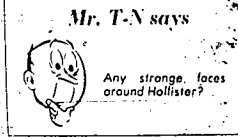

The Oakland bomb was removed and exploded safely by police. The State Department blast shattered a restroom and three adjoining offices shortly after 11 p.m. MST when the building was virtually empty.

There were also a spate of bomb threats in Washington Wednesday, causing the temporary evacuations of the Interior and Treasury Departments and searches of several other federal buildings. No explosives were found.

State Department operations were back to normal today — although security had been tightened with more policemen in the halls. Electricity was restored to most of the offices affected by the blast but two restrooms and three offices were closed because of extensive damage.

Kelley said the "Weather Underground" has claimed responsibility — for — 10 — politically motivated bombings in the United States since 1970, including the Capitol building in 1971 and the Pentagon in 1972.

Plant shuts at Burley

By DAVID BOOKMAN

Times News Writer

BURLEY — Production at the J.R. Simplot Co. Burley Processing plant will end Friday.

The shutdown will affect from one-third to half the plant's 230 employees, according to plant manager Jay Young.

Earlier in the week, employees of the plant, which processes dehydrated potato products, were informed that a lay off was pending.

About 35 employees of Keegan Inc., Twin Falls, a produce dealer, have been laid off for the past two weeks, according to owner Jim Keegan.

The lay offs are the result of depressed demand for potatoes, he said.

Last week, the A&P potato processing plant near Burley went to a four day work week. A&P plant manager Lynn Dalling said about 25 of the plant's 230 employees are on the shortened work week.

Both plants are located in Cassia County where about 1500 people are normally employed in food processing plants, according to the state Department of Employment.

Simplot's director of public relations, William T. Maxwell, said, said another of the company's plants in Idaho Falls will also halt production Friday.

According to Maxwell, the layoff of employees is a result of a downward trend in sales of processed potatoes and a subsequent buildup of inventories.

Production at the Burley plant won't resume until sales catch up with inventory. In the meantime, the plant will undergo repairs, maintenance and improvement.

Although other Simplot plants at Caldwell, Heyburn and Aberdeen are continuing to run on present schedules, Maxwell noted that the schedules are less than normal for this time of year.

The slowdown in food processing appears to be statewide. Department of Employment figures show that the unemployment rate among food processing workers was 7.4 percent in December, 1974. The previous year, the December rate was 4.4 percent.

The 1974 figures did not include the industry wide-lay-offs occurring during the last week in December and first week of January 1975.

At that time, thousands of Idaho food processing workers were laid off. Industry spokesmen said Christmas lay-offs were to allow "sales to catch up with inventory."

UFO or meteorite, TF officers can't find it

By GEORGE WILEY

Times News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The search for an unidentified flying object seen over Twin Falls early this morning ended without result.

Four on-duty policemen searched the southern section of the city after seeing a bright object arc across the sky and appear to land in the industrial section beyond Rock Creek.

"While no object could be found, the incident left the police officers who had witnessed the object subject to the razzing of their fellow lawmen."

"Who put the sauce in the city's coffee?" asked one sheriff's deputy, and at the bottom of the notation on the city police blotter reporting the sighting someone had written "confirmed by little green men."

Despite the jokes, the officers insisted the sighting was real.

They were not alone. Truck drivers and other early risers reported seeing the bright object streak over Twin Falls.

"Nobody but nobody said it was a flying saucer, and there was no such thing as little green men," city patrolman Ron Robertson said today. "It was just a meteorite."

Robertson said he first saw the object when it was about halfway across the sky over Twin Falls.

"Hey, did you guys see that?" he asked over his car radio.

The three other city officers on duty responded that they did indeed see the object.

Robertson said the object was round and "bright orange." He said it had a "kind of bluish-green tail."

Following the object across the sky, Robertson said he thought it landed south of town near Western Beverage Corp.

Robertson said he and the three other officers then "went out and checked" but couldn't find anything.

There was one moment of excitement, he said, when they spotted smoke coming from a field in the area.

"I had my camera. I was going to take pictures of it," Robertson said, but the smoke turned out to be a steaming culvert, he added.

Robertson said the object was "large enough to see" and he estimated that it was about 500 feet above the ground. It moved fast, he said, too fast for a flare.

He said the sighting occurred at "almost exactly 5 a.m."

"Those idiots down at the station made a big deal out of it," he concluded.

Buhl man dies

WELLS, Nev. — A 41-year-old Buhl man died early Wednesday in an auto accident north of Wells, Nev.

According to Nevada State Police, Edward D. Brown was killed Wednesday morning when his northbound car left the U.S. 93 about 31 miles north of Wells and rolled down an embankment.

Brown, who farmed for several years, had been employed as a real estate agent prior to his death.

Stanley shivers

STANLEY — The Stanley Ranger Station reported it degrees below zero this morning.

Forest Service personnel said at 9 a.m. today it was clear and still cold at the ranger station. At that time, it was snowing lightly in Twin Falls where the low was 11 above last night, according to James Terry, Weather Service meteorologist.

Terry said the Magic Valley has had four days of below normal temperatures, but not as cold as Stanley. The low there Wednesday was 29 below after two previous lows in the minus 20 range.

Kindergarten prospects for Idaho appear shaky

By BILL LAZARUS

Times News Capital Bureau

BOISE — Prospects for establishing kindergartens are shaky again this year.

Kindergarten legislation faces two major obstacles: first, getting by the House, which has rejected such measures for the past three years straight; second, being funded in the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee.

With legislative revenue projections for next year $7.9 million below Gov. Andrus' projections, kindergartens will be competing with other programs proposed by the governor for a piece of a smaller economic pie.

It will be vying, that is, if a kindergarten program passes through the legislature.

"I don't believe there is better than a 50-50 chance anymore. . . I wouldn't have said that a month ago but you have to be realistic now," Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl and chairman of the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, said Wednesday. . . .

Barker, who supports kindergartens, said "the merits of the program" might not even be considered if the financing difficulties are seen to be too great.

"My hope is that if it passes that we can fund it," Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls and a kindergarten supporter, said. But High, who co-chairs the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee with Rep. Bill Roberts, R-Buhl, could not say definitely that the program would be funded.

Roberts, meanwhile, has said that the need to balance the state's budget likely would mean cutting out kindergartens.

Before being considered by the Finance Appropriations Committee, however, a kindergarten bill will face a difficult challenge in the House.

Leadership in that chamber still is set against kindergartens.

"I won't support them, I never have," Speaker of the House Allen Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said.

Larsen said kindergartens would start children in school too early. He also said there would be no sense in kindergartens for rural children who would have to take long bus rides at such a young age. Larsen, however, would not guess the likelihood of the kindergarten bill passage or defeat in the House this year.

House Majority Leader Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, supported Larsen's anti-kindergarten view and added that under the proposed program "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer" since districts which choose not to have kindergartens would not receive the funds for another program.

Two different proposals for kindergartens now are emerging. Both would call for a non-compulsory program. Districts would not have to start kindergartens and families would not have to send their children.

Gromyko expands Mideast trip itinerary

By United Press International
Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, scheduled to visit Cairo on Monday, added Syria and Iraq to his itinerary today in what diplomatic sources said was an attempt to offset the forthcoming Middle East visit by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

An official announcement in Damascus said Gromyko would arrive in Damascus Saturday for a two-day visit at the invitation of the Syrian government. The Egyptian Middle East News Agency, in a dispatch from Baghdad, said Gromyko also will visit Iraq.

Both Iraq and Syria are now the Soviet Union's leading arms purchasers in the Middle East. The Kremlin refused to resupply Egypt after the 1973 Middle East War and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat placed orders for $2.2 million in military and other equipment with France on Wednesday.

Diplomats in London said Russia does not like competitors in the field of arms supplies, which have been the key factor in its efforts to win various countries to its political gains. And they say Russia believes only it can supply the heavy and sophisticated weapons Egypt would need in any new war with Israel.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said Gromyko was invited to immediately visit Syria and Iraq. Sadat also holds that another separation of Israeli and Arab forces is necessary before the Geneva conference can be resumed.

In other Middle East developments: —George Hishash, leader of the Popular Front for the liberation of Palestine, said in Baghdad today that Iraq was the principal supporter of his movement's battle against a Middle East peace settlement, which he branded as "imperialist and treasonous."

Sources said Foreign Minister Philip Takla will head the Lebanese delegation at next week's Cairo meeting of the joint Arab Defense Council. The meeting is being convened on Lebanon's request to discuss reported Israeli attacks on south Lebanon.

—In Jerusalem, about 1,000 youths opposed to Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories, marched on Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's residence Wednesday. The crowd dispersed peacefully.

Shutdown orders list 23 N-plants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a result of small cracks found in the pipes of a nuclear power reactor in Illinois, the government has ordered 23 such plants across the country to close down within 20 days so checks can be made on the safety of their operation.

A spokesman said Wednesday the Nuclear Regulatory Commission ordered the shutdown of the reactors, which are used to run electrical power generators, after the Commonwealth Edison Co., Chicago reported it had found five small cracks in the pipes of one of its reactors.

"We've ordered the operators of 23 boiling water reactors to shut down within 20 days to determine if there are cracks in any other piping," the spokesman said.

He said the order covered one or more reactors operated by the following authorities in these locales:

- Consumers Power Co., Big Rock Point, Mich.
- Tennessee Valley Authority, Browns Ferry, Ala.
- Carolina Power and Light Co., Brunswick, N.C.
- Commonwealth Edison Co., Dresden and Quad Cities, Ill.
- Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., Duane Arnold, Iowa.

Battered supply convoy docks in Cambodian city

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A battered supply convoy steamed through a gauntlet of guerrilla guns into besieged Phnom Penh with the first food shipment for the capital in more than a month.

A government spokesman said six vessels docked at dawn and workers began unloading 2,000 tons of rice to replenish the city's dwindling food stocks.

Military sources said two other ships were sunk during the convoy's perilous, day-long, 71-mile trip up the winding Mekong River from South Vietnam.

The arrival of the ship lessened the likelihood of an American airlift to supply the refugee-swollen capital. U.S. officials had raised the possibility of a Berlin-style airlift if the city ran out of food.

A government spokesman said four food barges, two ammunition barges and two oil tankers reached Phnom Penh this morning but military sources said the rebels sank two other fuel tankers near the South Vietnamese border.

The sources said a battered cargo ship in the convoy was forced to halt at the Cambodian garrison town of Neak Klong for repairs before going on to Phnom Penh.

A spokesman in Saigon said the rebels attacked the cargo ship Wednesday afternoon, killing two crewmen and wounding four as the convoy crossed into Cambodia territory.

Insurgent troops have laid siege to Phnom Penh since Christmas eve, closing all the capital's supply roads, halting all but emergency flights and mauling the only three river convoys to reach the city.

Intelligence officers in beleaguered Phnom Penh said about 12,000 of the Communist-led Khmer Rouge guerrillas are taking part in the campaign.

Two food and ammunition convoys reached the capital last week, but the rice barges arriving today brought the first food shipment to Phnom Penh since Dec. 24.

The government has imposed rice rationing in the capital because of severe food shortages. Government sources have warned the situation could become critical within weeks.

Insurgent fighters fired two rockets into the capital and 12 into nearby Phnom Penh Airport Wednesday night and early today, killing three persons and wounding 14, the spokesman said.

SITTING IN ruins of Tay Ninh, South Vietnam, a mother and her children search for and eat scraps. Their plight is typical of hundreds of South Vietnamese civilians caught in resurgent fighting. Tay Ninh was hit by Communist rocket attack today which killed 2 persons, injured 40. (UPI)

Doctors say TF suspect mentally impaired

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man charged with first degree murder was described by two psychiatrists as mentally retarded, psychotic, unable to assist in his own defense and suffering from mental disease.

The two psychiatrists testified in a hearing in Fifth Judicial District Court here Wednesday before Judge Theron W. Ward. The hearing was in the case of Richard Lee Huffman, 23. He is charged with the Aug. 7 slaying of Stephanie Whitesides, Twin Falls.

She was killed in a downtown shop where she was employed and where she was working alone during the lunch hour.

In the hearing Wednesday afternoon, Dr. E. A. Gaw, Department of Health and Welfare psychiatrist who examined Huffman at the county jail, described him as "psychotic" and said he was vague and unwilling to talk about the incidents on the day of the alleged killing. He said Huffman was "probably not responsible" for his act.

He said he indicated he would do as his attorney told him whether or not he agreed with it. Dr. Gaw said the defendant's judgment is "impaired" as to his ability to know right from wrong, but on the day of the examination said he knew what he did, was not right.

The doctor also said he did not believe the defendant had any idea as to his act in connection with criminal law, but said he indicated he thought he would have a trial and be given a life prison sentence.

Dr. Gaw was appointed by the court to evaluate Huffman. The second doctor who testified was Dr. LaMar Heyrend, of the State School, Nampa. He told the court he believed the defendant had the mental capacity of a seven to nine year old and did not have the ability to assist in his own defense or to comprehend the consequences of his act.

Under questioning by Judge Ward he stated he believed the defendant suffered "severe mental disease." Dr. Heyrend told the court he believed the defendant suffered from birth defects and said he would like more time to study his records and case history.

Both doctors testified they believed Huffman is mildly mentally retarded.

Judge Ward withheld pronouncement of sentence until Dr. Heyrend has an opportunity to make further evaluations and report to the court.

The judge remanded Huffman to the county jail where he is held without bond, until required for further hearing at the time the report from Dr. Heyrend is available.

ERA chalks up 3 gains, 3 setbacks across US

WASHINGTON — A constitutional amendment to equalize the sexes has made three gains off by three setbacks in opening activity in state legislatures so far this month.

However, each of the setbacks came in a state that was not expected to ratify the amendment this year, and one of the gains — in Nebraska — was unexpected.

Tuesday, Nebraska's legislature, which once ratified the amendment and then changed its mind, moved toward final approval of a proposal to reaffirm its approval.

The vote was 23 in favor, 10 against — the minimum favorable vote in the 48-seat, one-house legislature. However, that was only a "second reading" vote. A crucial third and final vote will be held Thursday or Friday.

So far 33 states — counting Nebraska — have voted to approve the amendment, which would declare that equality of the sexes could not be "abridged" by any state or by the federal government.

It would take a minimum of 38 states to complete ratification. Proponents of the measure have said that 1975 is a "make-or-break" year for the amendment, which would not take effect until two years after final ratification.

The action in Nebraska followed a vote of approval on Monday in the Indiana House. The 61-39 margin was seven votes higher than on the last vote in the house in 1973.

However, an Associated Press survey of state senators last week indicated that the proposal may have serious trouble in the upper house.

The third favorable vote on the amendment came last Friday in North Dakota, when the senate approved, 28-22. House action is expected shortly, and supporters say North Dakota may become the first state this year to ratify.

Last week, however, was dominated by a string of defeats for the amendment. First, the Oklahoma House killed a ratification motion by a vote of 50-41. This means it cannot be brought up again this year or next.

Then, the Virginia Senate committee handling the measure ended a series of votes by deciding, 14-7, not to let the amendment go to the floor for action.

TF man receives 10-year sentence

TWIN FALLS — William Roger Carlock, 20, Twin Falls, was sentenced Wednesday to 10 years in state prison for arson at Frontier Field.

The sentence execution has been suspended during a 120-day period.

Carlock, charged with second degree arson in the April 21, 1973, fire at Frontier Field, will be sent to the state prison to remain under the jurisdiction of the state board of corrections for the 120 days.

Judge Theron W. Ward, Fifth Judicial District Court, said he will request an evaluation and report from the state at the end of that period. Carlock will then appear in district court for another hearing.

Judge Ward said he will take further action on the sentence at that time, depending on the state report and recommendation and whether or not he agrees with the board of corrections.

He said Carlock will then either be returned to the state penitentiary to complete the 10-year sentence or the part of it the state board of corrections orders or he will be placed on probation in some other area for a period of time.

Carlock originally pleaded innocent to charges of first degree arson, and later appeared to plead guilty to a lesser charge of second degree arson.

He was working as a security guard for the College of Southern Idaho, owners of Frontier Field, when a fire started there the night of April 21. Sixteen horses died in the fire which consumed a large barn.

Carlock was arrested and charged with arson by Twin Falls police following an investigation of the fire. He had reported the fire.

ERA preserves citizen rights

It's about time for everyone to read the Equal Rights Amendment. It is short, simple and straightforward.

"Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

That's the heart of it. There are two more sentences to provide for enforcement and to set an effective date.

"The Congress shall have the power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article. This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

Idaho legislators have been deluged by one of the strongest but poorest informed lobbying attempts in the state's history. The legislators are handed leaves of bread by women asking for votes against the ERA. "We want to stay in the home," the women say, offering bread.

Other opponents of the ERA talk about the end of separate bathrooms in public places or the breakup of the home.

What are they talking about? The ERA doesn't have anything to do with bathrooms or the sanctity of the home.

It doesn't even add any new rights. After ratification of the ERA, the citizen's rights will be those of the Bill of Rights and other parts of the Constitution.

All the ERA says is that those presumably inalienable rights can't be taken away or limited because of a person's sex.

That is, one citizen has the same rights as any other citizen. Women can't be forced to do without some rights men have, and vice versa.

Because the ERA is simply a restatement and clarification of the implicit constitutional principle that all citizens share equal rights, it can be argued with force that the ERA is unnecessary.

In fact, the courts have begun to rule that many laws which have special protection for women are unconstitutional under the existing constitution. For example, laws in two southern states that exempted women from jury duty were ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court this week.

It is becoming apparent that if these special rights now granted women under many laws are to be preserved in the future, there will have to be some kind of constitutional amendment to expressly say women have different rights than men.

In the end, the question will become whether there should be express equal rights or express unequal rights for the sexes.

Equal rights, regardless of race, national origin, religion and even sex is the loom on which the American fabric is woven.

How can equal rights undermine the family? It would seem a family is based on the freely given legal and sacred vows between the marriage partners. The structure of that marriage is what the marriage partners make it. It surely is not built by requiring one of its members to abandon her legal rights as a citizen.

In America, each woman has a right to have bread, a right to be married, a right to raise a family, a right to privacy, and a right to do anything any other citizen has a right to do. She even has the same right as any man to separate bathrooms.

The ERA would do nothing more than preserve those rights.

If there is any serious doubt about ensuring all citizens equal rights, the opponents of the ERA should ask themselves this question:

"Would I support a constitutional amendment that was the opposite of the ERA? Could I support one which began 'Equality of rights under the law may be denied or abridged on account of sex'?"

Probably not.

Once any American citizen's rights can be stripped away, then no American's rights are secure.

Prudent men can save CIA from destruction

WASHINGTON — One of the wisest heads in the Senate rests upon the aging shoulders of John Stennis of Mississippi.

Last week the rampaging Jacobins, shunted down his effort to direct a "responsible" investigation of the Central Intelligence Agency.

We are therefore likely to have an irresponsible investigation instead. On both sides of Capitol Hill the timbers are rattling. In the House it was Bastille Day for the minority system. Unless the revolutionary fervor can be cooled, the CIA will become the first victim of the new inquisitions.

The peril to the CIA is both real and immediate. In post-Watergate Washington, where the guilt of public officials is assumed, the CIA finds itself "covered" overnight by "massive allegations." That was the charge brought by the New York Times in an overblown story on Dec. 22.

CIA Director William E. Colby did his best last week to wet down the flames. He delivered a long and remarkably candid statement to a Senate appropriations subcommittee. He denied the substance of the Times' allegations, but he acknowledged that errors of misjudgment and overzealousness had occurred.

The headlines were recklessly misleading. What Colby "admitted" was that, contrary to the summer of 1967, the CIA had established a unit "to look into the possibility of foreign links to American dissident elements." Such an investigation is plainly within the CIA's field of responsibility. Before the investigation was ended in 1973, Colby said, "files" had indeed been created on about 10,000 citizens — but he patiently explained that these were not files or dossiers as the terms generally are employed.

One by one, Colby took up most of the specific charges brought by the Times — charges of "break-ins," "sneaking," "opening mail" and "physical surveillance," and reduced a mountain of innuendo to a molehill of fact. Without significant exception, the incidents were wholly defensible in terms of the CIA's obligations under the law. It is high time for senior members of Congress publicly to suggest that Colby's credibility is at least as solid as the credibility of the New York Times.

But the fever lingers. Under a little-noticed amendment to last year's Foreign Assistance Act, the CIA now is required to advise the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee of its covert operations abroad. The requirement is pure mischief. These are checkmate committees; they are certain to leak. The CIA also will have to send its top people to testify before the various investigating bodies. Transcripts will be made of their testimony, and these transcripts will provide an irresistible temptation to glibly misrepresent, unscrupulous aides, and rapacious reporters.

In his statement, Colby said the agency has worked out "cover" arrangements with various corporations "to provide the dependable source of income and rationale for a CIA officer to reside and work in a foreign country." What is Colby to say if one of his congressional tormentors demands to know more about these cur companies? He can only refuse to answer and risk contempt.

No intelligence agency can operate in the sunshine of total disclosure; its sources will evaporate; friendly governments will refuse their cooperation. Two renegade former CIA agents already have done great harm by writing lurid, untrue books. A hundred irresponsible congressmen could well complete the destructive work. It can't be permitted to happen, but unless a few prudent men ride to the CIA's rescue, it will happen.

'SPARE A DIME? SINCE WHEN WERE YOU SATISFIED WITH A DIME?'

Saigon military aid, yes; American bodies, no

WASHINGTON — Things could be worse, I suppose. Like, say, free handouts for needy mothers.

But we sure as shootin' can do without official "suggestions" that certain circumstances in the United States would involve itself again in the Vietnam fighting.

It scares me almost to death to hear President Ford tell a news conference he would not rule out the possibility that the U.S. might use its air or naval power to assist the Saigon regime in its new war with Communist North Vietnam. I want to hear him make a resounding and unequivocal statement that nope, there is absolutely no chance that American forces will join that particular fuss.

There is a lot of talk about Washington "leaving its options open" as a signal to the Hanoi regime that we still might intervene. Necessary. Options options. We're out of that mess now and it behooves the President to make it clear that we haven't the slightest intention of plugging ourselves back into it. If that means the Communists eventually will take over South Vietnam, so be it. Give Saigon another $300 million in military assistance, but no American bodies.

In the first place, Vietnam is on the other side of the world. Its takeover by the Reds would be no more a threat to our borders than Communist Czechoslovakia is. Sure the Communies might expand into the rest of Southeast Asia, which would be tough on the citizens of that area but still only a nuisance to the U.S.

Moreover, neither the Soviet Union nor Communist China is enthusiastic about a united Communist regime ruling all of Southeast Asia. They want small puppet states they can pick around, not a big and populous area under one dictatorship.

The reason Moscow and Peking don't get along is that they are both big and strong and jealously ambitious to run the world. They need another rival named the Peoples Socialist Republic of Southeast Asia & Co. like they need free trials.

Fortunately, we've got a law, Congress, on June 30, 1973, enacted legislation prohibiting the expenditure of funds for any "combat activities by United States forces in or over or from the shore of North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Laos or Cambodia." And President Ford has said that "any military actions, if taken, would be only taken following the actions under our constitutional and legal procedure."

What Ford means, I hope, is that he would abide by the law and first ask Congress for approval to reintroduce American forces in Indochina. And by now there are enough votes on Capitol Hill to reject any such request.

So in fact, Ford's refusal to rule out any American air or naval intervention in Vietnam doesn't mean a really thing. Remember that Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson all violated the Constitution by dispatching American troops to Indochina, and Johnson even managed to fight a major war there without getting Congress to declare that one existed.

Our only hope, of course, is that Gerald Ford is not that kind of a president. I don't believe he is, for all his occasional fits of saber-rattling when he was a member of Congress. He is beginning to sound as tough as Harry Truman, but he is not an advocate of high-handedness by the executive.

Therefore, on the Vietnam issue I can only presume he would take military action without Congressional consent. At the same time I suspect that his "warning" to Hanoi is an exercise in gamesmanship. For all our sakes, including Gerald Ford's, it's better to be

Panel critics rejoice

The death of the old House Committee on Un-American Activities has caused large-scale unemployment among the class of Americans who appear to have devoted the whole of their time to the committee's derogation.

It was to be expected that they should rejoice, and in doing so, reiterate the usual jokes about the committee's ineptitude.

But it was surprising to read my colleague (we work for the same mag) George Will writing about the committee as though he were an apprentice for The Nation magazine. But the learned Will is a Ph.D. from Princeton, and it is too much to expect that you can work your way up that very steep academic ladder without getting splintered by a few of the biases of the liberal generation, whose major sportsperson was, indeed, the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Fifteen years ago, I undertook a study of the House Committee's history, intending to probe the question whether in fact it was all that bad. The result was a book: The Committee and Its Critics (Putnam, 1962).

I learned that the scope of the committee's work was large, by no means confined to looking into George Hall's bed in secret of a summer. Hundreds of hearings, a thousand publications, a library of expert testimony, qualified the work of the committee as a supremely valuable repository of expert knowledge on the scope and meaning and particularities of the Communist enterprise, a source more valuable by far than what the typical student, taking every course in the curriculum, was likely to come up against in a major university.

Of course the committee had its foibles. And of course some of these foibles suspected the local bassoon player was the ganglion of the conspiracy. But for every one of them, there were 10 in professor's chairs who believed the committee was threatening American freedom. And, alas, for every fool who served on the committee, there were, and are, a thousand beady-eyed plotters against human freedom who rejoice at the ineptitude of the west.

It wasn't the House Committee on Un-American Activities that fought and won a world war and thereupon turned eastern Europe into a

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

Soviet slave camp and mainland China into a Maoist slave camp.

Will's material derives from the book of Walter Goodman — how many such books there were! Books, monographs, tracts, by such as Robert Carr, Henry Steele Commager, James Wechsler, Alan Barth, Zecheriah Chafetz, Telford Taylor, the theme of which seemed to be: How shall we make it absolutely painless for an American citizen to contribute to the subversion of his country?

Will cites with supreme contempt a question put to one witness by one member of the committee, a couple of decades ago: "Would you say that (the New Deal) was more Fascist or more Communist?" But Will is a great tease. He fails to give us the answer.

Gift shopping such a problem in these times

WASHINGTON — Last week it was reported a Saudi Arabian sheik made an offer to buy the Alamo, Texas' most revered shrine.

It seems Sheikh Al-Ahmar Al-Hamdan contracted a Houston lawyer, told him his son had been in San Antonio and had been taken with the beauty of the famed Texas fort and, since he loved his son, he wanted to buy it for him.

The attorney called Gov. Dolph Briscoe and was informed the Alamo was not for sale. This came as a surprise, since this is the first time the oil crisis that anyone in the United States has refused to sell something to an Arab sheik.

But I'm sure there will be other calls from the Middle East concerning our monuments. "This is Sheikh Abdullah Ben Doon. I am looking for a small wedding gift for my daughter. What would you suggest?"

"Wal, Sheik, how about a priceless diamond necklace and tiara?"

"I had something a little more sentimental in mind. When my daughter was a schoolgirl she visited the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City."

"Yes?"

"I would like to buy it for her."

ART BUCHWALD

"I'll check it out for you, Sheik. Let me ask you this. If for some reason it's not for sale could you give me a second choice?"

"She also said she liked Yosemite National Park."

"Right. If I can't get Yosemite, do you think she'd take the Yellowstone National Park instead?"

"My daughter didn't say anything about Yellowstone. It has no sentimental value for her."

"What about Las Vegas, Sheik? It would be kind of fun when she cuts open the wedding cake to find the deed inside."

"It's too frivolous. My daughter is a serious person. Could you tell me how much they're asking for St. Patrick's Cathedral?"

"Not offhand, but I'll call the cardinal and see if he'll accept an offer. You wouldn't consider the Metropolitan Museum of Art as an alternate, would you?"

"Sheik Al Rumallah gave his daughter an art museum last month. I want to do something better for my child."

"You want something tasteful but different. I'll tell you what's really nice — the Supreme Court Building in Washington."

"No, I believe that is more for a boy. I want something that has a little romance to it."

"What about Princeton University?"

"Eh, that's not a bad idea. But I'll be honest with you. If I'm going to buy her a school, I'd rather buy her Oxford. It has a more antique feeling to it."

"I don't want to knock the British, but I hear Oxford is really run-down. With Princeton the upkeep is cheaper and she can move right in tomorrow."

"I am not interested in bargains. This is my eldest daughter and price is no object."

"Of course. Well, I think I have a good idea of the ball park we're talking about."

"I'll make a few calls and get back to you. Thank you. By the way, what news do you have about my offer to buy Grant's Tomb for my grandson?"

"I'm working on it, Sheik. I'm working on it."

Hunt brothers' saga may evolve into runner-up to 'Gate scandal'

DALLAS (UPI) — For more than two years Americans reeled at the disclosures of Watergate, believing themselves observers of events whose impact would not be matched again in their lifetimes.

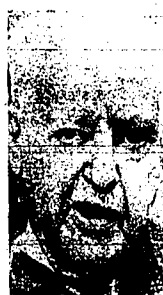

But for sheer intrigue and unperilled fortunes, the Hunt brothers' saga may evolve into a timely runnerup.

At stake are the reputations and freedom of two Texas multimillionaires — whose father, H.H. Hunt, built a $5 billion oil and land empire before his death at 85 last year, and the salvage rights to the political careers of Richard Nixon, Richard Kleindienst, John Connally and some of their associates in and out of office.

Nelson Bunker Hunt and W. Herbert Hunt, middle-aged entrepreneurs whose wealth enabled them to ask governors of or do business with presidents, shiekhs and kings, face trial this spring in a West Texas federal courtroom on charges they conspired to tap the telephones of their father's closest aides.

NELSON B. HUNT
... faces trial

H.H. HUNT
... patriarch

If convicted, they most certainly would go to prison as did the Houston private detective convicted of carrying out what the government believed were the directives of the brothers.

But it is the lengths to which the Justice Department believes the Hunts went to escape prosecution on the wiretapping indictments which may even sooner than the trial result in the further discrediting of politicians who already have tumbled from the pinnacle and others who are on the brink.

The elements include: —The government's contention the Hunt brothers paid two Houston private detectives to eavesdrop on the home telephones of their father's aides in an attempt to obtain details of his widespread empire on the chance it would "pay" to be let to members of H.H.'s "oil-seed" family.

—The government's belief the Hunt brothers sought intervention by Nixon, Kleindienst and Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., to avoid prosecution.

—Published reports Bunker was offered immunity by the Nixon administration in exchange for a list of Arab terrorist agents in the United States, considered potential assassins of then Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, during a time when Mrs. Meir was scheduled to visit the United States.

—The loss through nationalization of Hunt's Middle East oil holdings.

—The death of H.H. Hunt left the bulk of his estate to his second wife and the children of that marriage. (Bunker and Herbert are Hunt's sons by his first wife who died in 1935.)

—Published reports that flamboyant criminal attorney Percy Foreman received $100,000 in Hunt payoff money to convince one of the two convicted detectives to remain silent about the Hunt's alleged involvement in wiretaps.

The reported delay of the Hunt brothers' trial which resulted from the January, 1970, arrest of the private investigators.

The Nixon connection reportedly was formed in 1972 at Connally's South Texas ranch where the former Texas governor was hosting the accompanying president.

Bunker complained then about Henry Kissinger's inaction regarding the Libyan seizure of his oil holdings. Hunt reportedly followed up with Kleindienst at Eastland's Mississippi ranch where the tradeoff involving the Arab agents was discussed.

Kleindienst lost his position as attorney general the following spring, however, and Nixon became mired in Watergate.

Washington columnist Jack Anderson this week reported a Dallas federal grand jury has heard testimony that Eastland received as much as $50,000 from the Hunt brothers on behalf of the Hunts.

"There is absolutely no truth to the allegations that I took a bribe," Eastland replied. "I have never taken a payoff from anybody at any place at any time."

Hunt responded, saying he never offered or paid a bribe to Eastland or anyone else.

"For Bunker, it has been one disaster after another," the London Observer recently reported. "He has lost Arab friends by trying to win immunity via the Al Fatah list. He has lost oilholdings which he estimates as worth $23 billion. He could yet go to jail on these wiretapping charges."

State house threatened

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — A state planner says Nevada's century-old Capitol would come tumbling down in a major earthquake.

"In my opinion, that building would fall," Public Works Director William Hancock told a hearing Tuesday.

Studies show the outside rock and masonry, to be deceptively thin, said Hancock. Behind this, he said, is a foundation of ancient rubble from an old quarry.

"It's like sand," he said. "It's so soft you can just reach in and take a handful."

Guided artillery shell meets tests

New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Army has successfully tested a laser-guided artillery shell that defense officials believe will revolutionize the role of artillery on the battlefield.

With the new shell, whose course can be changed in mid-flight to bring it down with high accuracy on a target, artillery for the first time would have a capability of attacking moving targets, such as tanks, at long range.

At least during Monday at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico, for example, one of the new shells hit a tank moving 20 miles an hour at a range of about three miles. In test firings over the last six months, the shell has scored similar hits against moving targets at longer ranges.

The test firings have demonstrated the technological feasibility of what is called the "common-launched guided projectile."

The Army is moving into engineering — development of the new shell and hopes to begin production within a few years.

Along with the "smart bombs" being developed by the Air Force, the new shell for the 155-MM. Howitzer, a standard artillery piece in an Army division — represents another example of how technology is making rapid and potentially radical changes in the battlefield, particularly in improving defenses against tanks.

Pinkies are regarded as the principal Soviet threat on the central European front.

The new shell, instead of following a ballistic trajectory that is determined when it leaves the barrel, becomes a guided missile that can be directed to a target, thus correcting firing errors or permitting the shell to catch up with a moving target.

Cut studied

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey is considering removing criminal penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Carey disclosed Tuesday that his health and law enforcement panels were studying the entire question of drug abuse with the view of reexamining existing state laws and replacing criminal penalties for possession of marijuana with fines or mandatory attendance at health clinics for treatment.

The governor's proposal came as two Democratic state legislators, Sen. Franz Leichter and Assemblyman Alvin Hevesi, said they would file a bill to legalize marijuana use for persons over 18 years of age and control its sale through liquor store outlets.

Valuable Vanilla The exquisite blossom of the vanilla plant lasts only one day, but gives away to the fruit, a cluster of long green pods, the vanilla beans. So valuable are these beans that they are branded by a pattern of pinpricks by each grower to prevent bean-rustling.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH Beet phenomenon often puzzling

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is your reaction to the thought that eating beets will cause red coloration in the stool remarkably similar to the presence of blood?

I had it and my wife said it was due to the beets lots of times. My doctor says this is ridiculous. — Mr. N.F.D.

It's the beets.

But don't fault your doctor on this one. Early in my practice I too was fooled by this phenomenon.

I am not aware of what makes beets red, but if you eat enough of them the stool will appear red. The chromoplasts, color-carrying substances in all plants, contain matter that is not affected by the body's digestive system, something similar to plant cellulose, which also is not digested.

Small amounts will make the stool dark. Large amounts will color the toilet water.

But true bleeding will usually present with subsequent bowel movements, and a little detective work usually solves such mysteries as it did for me in my early practice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please settle an argument?

What is your opinion of reaching when you have a heart attack? I have had two major attacks requiring hospitalization of three weeks each.

I want to do some painting and some tree-pruning this winter. My wife says I can't. My doctor is evasive. — G.B.

The general rule is simple: It is not what you do but how much. Thus, it is not a question of reaching, but of how much reaching you plan to do.

If your doctor is evasive, he may have reason. He may know, as indeed your wife may know, that you might tend to overdo yourself again and land back in the hospital a third time.

But there is nothing intrinsically dangerous in the process of reaching. If you could go about it sensibly, a little at a time, there seems no reason why you shouldn't do your painting in a well-aid

US export cut looming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. exports to China totaled a record $607 million in 1974, but that figure could be cut in half this year, according to the National Council for U.S.-China Trade.

American goods shipped to China last year were valued at about $200 million more than U.S. exports to the Soviet Union, couniled President Christopher H. Phillips said Tuesday.

But Phillips said U.S. exports to China could drop to $400 million this year because of cuts in shipments of agricultural products — which make up nearly 80 per cent of American products sent there.

The People's Republic of China, the United States' biggest grain customer, has already canceled contracts for 601,000 tons of American wheat scheduled for delivery starting next month.

The cancellation was announced this week by Cook Industries Inc.

GAO to probe FBI units

New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Wednesday that he had ordered an investigation by the General Accounting Office into the counterintelligence programs of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The investigation was ordered in Edwards' capacity as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on Civil Rights and Constitutional Rights and is already under way, the congressman said. GAO investigators are working in the bureau's headquarters in Washington and in 10 major field offices, Edwards said.

Meanwhile, the presidential press secretary, Ron Nessen, said that President Ford had disavowed the type of illegal counterintelligence activity described in a New York Times report Tuesday about the bureau's harassment of a professor at Arizona State University in 1970.

Nessen told newsmen that although he could not vouch for the accuracy of the article, "I can say this President is not responsible for what may or may not have happened before... and has made very clear that he expects government agencies to live up to standards of conduct he has spelled out."

The Civil Rights and Constitutional Rights Subcommittee is conducting a widespread investigation of both the counterintelligence programs, known as "Cointelpro," and the FBI's general operation. It put off hearings on bureau matters to permit Edward H. Levi, Ford's nominee for attorney general, to be confirmed and thus to be available to testify as attorney general.

Edwards, whose committee is investigating the harassment incident in which

FBI agents attempted to discredit an Arizona State University professor Morris J. Stasky, has drawn a sharp difference between the customary FBI practices and the techniques used in "Cointelpro."

Trading heavy

PRICES soared in the third consecutive day of hectic and heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average of 30 blue-chip stocks rose to 705.96. It was the first time the Dow has exceeded 700 since Aug. 22, 1974. (UPI)

Jobless gather on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jobless Americans are beginning to turn up in Washington to tell of their plight.

About 1,000 New York City residents who are out of work have shown up on Capitol Hill to corner congressmen. More will come next month.

There is no sign of mass starvation in America. People don't have money to put food on their table," said David Livingston, president of a warehouse workers union from New York City.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, told about 700 members of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, who convened from across the country, that his union plans to bus hundreds to Washington Feb. 5 for a job rally.

He said 239,000 employees of the four American auto companies are out of work, an unemployment rate of 26 per cent.

"We're going to pass 8 per cent unemployment in a national survey and we're going to hit 9," Woodcock said. The December national rate was 7.1 per cent — which meant 6.5 million people were without jobs.

The government reported Wednesday 351,200 American workers appeared at unemployment "benefits" offices during the week ending Jan. 16 to file initial claims for insurance benefits. That figure was down 116,500 from the previous week.

The number of workers actually receiving benefits was 4,561,200 during the week ending Jan. 11, down 49,200 from the previous week. The Labor Department cautioned against reading those week-to-week changes as a trend, since there are many ups and downs.

The Job Corps, which trains disadvantaged youngsters for useful work, celebrated its 10th anniversary Wednesday. Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan said the corps is finding it harder to place as many youths in good jobs when so many experienced workers have lost their jobs. The teenage unemployment rate is 21 per cent.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey told the machinists that if an across-the-board tax cut does not increase employment, the government should provide work.

"I'd rather spend $500 or $200 a week in a public service job than $75 a week for unemployment compensation," he said.

Tax compromise eyed by Ford

New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — President Ford indicated Wednesday that he would be willing to compromise with Congress on tax-cut legislation, but appeared to rule out any compromise on his program to reduce oil imports.

Meeting with a small group of reporters in the Roosevelt Room of the White House Wednesday afternoon, Ford said he would accept some changes in the details of his program to reduce taxes this year.

"There is room for flexibility," the President said. In fact, his advisers suggested that he was resigned to having the House Ways and Means Committee introduce a bill that differed substantially from his own plan for a tax cut to stimulate the nation's depressed economy.

Noting that Representative William E. Miller, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had come up with his own tax proposal, the President said it appeared Congress would pass its own program "whether we agree or not."

Although he did not say so specifically, Ford's answers left the impression that he would not veto a tax cut bill even if it differed from his own proposals.

He said there was a "reasonable similarity" between his proposals and Miller's. He added that other members of the House Committee would have their own ideas and that the final version of the House Bill would probably be somewhere in between his plan and the one approved Tuesday by Miller.

Earlier this month the President called for a rebate of 12 per cent of 1974 individual income taxes up to a maximum for a reduction of corporate taxes for a total tax cut package of $16 billion. Ford also proposed a reducing in 1975 income taxes but only to the extent necessary to offset the loss of purchasing power that would be caused by his program to raise fuel prices through higher tariffs and other measures.

Persian cat found clinging to car

BEAVERHART, Ill. (UPI) —

Beany, a two Persian cat

with a nick out of his right ear

and a chipped front tooth, is back home with Rusty. He has seen enough of the grimy side of life while clinging to the axle of a salesman's car.

Beany disappeared last Dec.

20 when Nancy Frakes and her family were moving from an apartment to a house in this town 57 miles west of

Springfield. That upset Rusty

Frakes, 42, who regarded the nearly 2-year-old male as his property.

"We had given up all hope,"

said Mrs. Frakes. "We couldn't believe it."

Last Friday, Don Wilcoxson,

a candy and merchandise

salesman for a Springfield

wholesaler, pulled up in front of Hunter's Cigar Store.

Wilcoxson told Charlie Hunter

the cat sounded funny, like a cat meowing.

Unable to see anything,

Wilcoxson went over to another one of his customers, Tom

Pennard of Tom's Standard

Service, to show him the car

that went "meow, meow."

"I thought he was kidding

because he is kind of a joker,"

Pennard said.

"We put the car up on the rack and there was this cat clinging to the rear axle. He was kind of dirty and greasy."

Wilcoxson said he was certain the car was moving all the way from Arenzville, a good 10 miles to the south.

Off sped Wilcoxson to Arenzville to see if he could locate the owner. This time the cat rode inside the car.

In Beardstown, Pennard

told the story of the traveling cat to Mrs. Frakes.

Lioness chews tires

ATLANTA (UPI) — Kimba, a middle-aged lioness with a fondness for chewing rubber car

tires, has had her 3½ inch teeth capped.

Officials at Lion Country Safari said Monday

Kimba was in good health and eating normally following dental surgery last weekend.

It seems the lioness had punctured about 20

tires with her sharp teeth at the park, where the lions room and visitors stay in their cars.

Lion Country veterinarian Morton Silberman

imported a dentist from Birmingham, Ala., Dr.

Edward Strother, to blunt Kimba's teeth.

A Lovelier You FUTURE PERFECT FASHIONS

By Mary Sue Miller

Doubtless you have been reading about spring fashions and looking at them in shop windows for a month or so. But have you classified the news according to your needs? It's more than ever essential to shop with your head together. This rundown is meant as a starting place for daytime purchasers.

Length: Below knee to above ankle—at any point between the two that suits your taste and leg. For young girls with good legs, above-knee skirts are back in sports and playclothes.

Shape: The big shapes have been refined with sashed waists and tucks that control fullness around hips and shoulders. Slim shapes, never slinky, follow the best classic fashion concepts.

Dresses: The chemise, shirtdress...and two-piece make strong impressions. Fall's ballooning sleeves are narrower and cuffed. Ruffles and laces are restrained for daywear.

Suits: Leading types are soft tailors, blended separates, and loose jackets over big skirts.

Coats: Full-to-skinny sums up the look.

Indispensables: Panteuits, knits, skirts, blouses, and sweaters have joined the wardrobe basics.

Fabrics: Flannel, gabardine, twill, knits, jersey, chambray, crepe, chiffon and chiffon weaves in all fibers. Colors: The palest peach, mauve, pink and blue. Clear brights—real lemon, red, green, blue. No-color neutrals—cream, white, olive, gray. Always—black and navy.

MODEL TIPS FOR TEENS

Fifty ways to ideal skin and natural makeup for young teens—ages 13 to 18—are detailed in my booklet, MODEL TIPS FOR TEENS. Advice covers corrective skin care; how to use makeup to accent good points and play down problems; fashion model make-up tricks. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and cents in coin.

He's still dieting

CUMMING, Ga. (UPI) — The 11-year-old star Junior Samples still has 81 pounds to lose to reach his goal of 200, although the hefty television comedian has lost 55 pounds since last October. Samples, who entered a hospital Dec. 16 and stayed 20 days to get started on his weight loss, said Monday he has been "making good progress" on his diet and losing about five pounds a week.

"This diet is something," he said. "No grease, no sugar, no eggs, everything boiled, no fat, no salt—that's the worst, no salt." Although the ideal weight for his five foot, eight inch frame is about 165 pounds, Samples said "I ain't never gonna make that."

"I expect at 300 my ribs'll be showing and I'll look just pitiful."

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CAKE

- 1 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 beaten eggs
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cloves
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup applesauce
- 1 cup raisins

Stir shortening. Add sugar. Cream until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix well. Sift dry ingredients three times. Add a little at a time alternately with the applesauce. Beat smooth after each addition. Fold in raisins. Bake in a nine-by-nine pan for one hour at 350 degrees.

you would have played the king without having the queen in reserve. West was quite right. South's attempt to get West to play the ace was doomed to failure against any good player, once he played the king. Had he played the queen it might have been a different story. Expert West might have decided that South held five trumps to the queen-jack and that a duck with the ace would lead to the ace and king falling together on the next trump lead.

Wives campaign to get husbands home

LONDON (UPI) — Wives of Labor Party members are of Parliament who say their husbands work too late and are deprived of home life have begun a campaign to get them home by 6 p.m.

The House of Commons working day begins at 2:30 p.m. and can run to all-night sittings. Mrs. Eileen Radice, wife of Labor MP Giles Radice, has asked all 319 wives of Labor MPs to petition Government Chief Whip Bob Mellish.

"My children rarely see their father and I see him only when he's exhausted," Mrs. Radice said.

"I don't want him to give up, I want to change the system. I suppose it's a good old-fashioned suffragette attitude."

She said the system of starting at 2:30 p.m. was started in the 19th Century and was for the benefit of Conservatives with outside professions, especially lawyers.

Mrs. Phillip Whitehead said her husband had four hours' sleep on four nights in six weeks last week. Once he went to bed at 11:30 p.m. and got up at 3 a.m. to speak in the house, she said.

"Obviously it is not the healthiest system in the world, for the highest," said Mrs. Susan Crossland, wife of the environment minister. Chief Whip Mellish, expressing sympathy for the lonely wives, said he hoped the Committee of Procedure would recommend a fixed closure of 10 p.m. The committee is due to report by Easter.

The campaign has met opposition, not only from Conservatives but some Labor wives as well.

"After all, said Mrs. Mary Brown, wife of MP Ronald Brown, "our husbands knew when they tried to get into Parliament what the hours were. You cannot treat Parliament on an office hours basis."

Former Conservative MP Handsworth Sydney Chapman said the long hours were one of the main weapons of the opposition, giving it the chance to delay and frustrate the government and force it to think again.

"Long sittings, in which a great variety of speeches can be made, are an integral part of this, for government as well as opposition backbenchers," he said. "If you set time limits you destroy the weapon."

Movie may play role in reunion

HOLLYWOOD — L.P.I. his 29-year-old daughter.

Mr. Jack Cummings may help me out by making a movie about my life in which Victoria and her mother would be a part," said Tate.

"Jack, who made most of the quips at MGM in the old days, was a friend of mine during World War II."

Producer Cummings said, "I'm working on a couple of studies right now to go along with a projected biographical picture on Jack Tate's life. He's a colorful man and the episode with Zoya while he was a Naval diplomatic attaché in Russia certainly is romantic."

"I knew about the love affair, but I didn't know about the child. It would be wonderful if Victoria could play the role of her own mother."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 By Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with Don for two years. I am 22 and he is 25. I hear girls at the office talking about bringing covered dishes to family gatherings, going to his folks' or hers for dinner, or for the weekend, or the holidays, and I get more heartsick every day. I've begun to realize what marriage is all about. It's really belonging to someone who loves you enough to want to make you a member of his family. Don is always telling me what a wonderful arrangement we have, and how much he loves me. The past several months, I've been asking myself: "If it's so wonderful and he loves me so much, why do we lie, sneak around and let people assume we are married?" Why doesn't he ask me to marry him, and become a member of his family? They don't even know I exist.

HEARTSICK

She's free to leave him

DEAR HEARTSICK: Because he doesn't want a legal commitment. And if he is able to get all the benefits of marriage with none of the responsibilities, who can blame him? I am assuming he didn't kidnap you. You agreed to live with him without marriage. You walked into it of your own free will, and you're free to walk out. Why don't you? I think you're ready.

DEAR ABBY: Is it unmanly for a girl to wear a hat in a knitted covering on her head when she's inside a building? Our principal always asks the girls and boys both to remove their hats when they are in school.

He said that someone should write to DEAR ABBY and ask about it, and if you said it was all right, he would ask the boys only to remove their hats when they're inside the building.

He said he didn't believe that anyone would write to you and ask. Well, I'm writing. OKLAHOMA STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT: Customs, rules and traditions are made up by those in authority, and they differ drastically. In some houses of worship it's considered disrespectful to wear a hat. In others, the head must be covered. In some schools, all that's required of the students is that they come with the HEADS on... and what's ON their heads is no consequence.

Your principal should know the rules of your school—and so should you. Obey the rules. If they're unfair or pointless—change the rules.

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, but never thought I'd be writing to you.

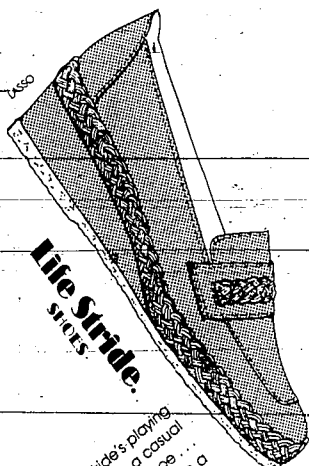

Now, my problem: A close relative of mine was recently married. The wedding was out of state so we didn't attend, but we sent a wedding present that cost over $100.

Today, I received a letter from the bride's mother. Along with it, she sent five pictures of the wedding. She wrote, "The pictures are $1 each. You can square it with us later."

In other words, "pay up." Abby, I think this is in very poor taste. In fact, I have never heard of "selling" wedding pictures to close relatives. Should I return the pictures? (I don't really want them.) Or should I keep the pictures and send her five dollars? Or just keep the pictures and not send anything? STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: Return the pictures with a note thanking her for "sharing" them with you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RED": You're right. I was unfair to redheads. I should have said, "Never tell a redhead OR A BLONDE, OR A BRUNETTE that you love her unless you intend to marry her." (And you can throw in those ladies with the new, two-tone jobs, too.)

Miss Minniear, Ward exchange nuptial promises

ALMO — Jayne Minniear and Douglas Ward were married in a double ring ceremony Jan. 28 at the Almo United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Minniear, Fillmore, Utah, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Ward, Almo.

Bishop William D. Jones conducted the 6 p.m. ceremony before an arch of greenery trimmed with white wedding bells and pink ribbon bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length gown of nylon organza over satin, featuring an empire waistline accented with lace trimmed with seed pearls.

The dress featured long full sleeves of lace with wide cuffs. The high neckline was lace trimmed. The skirt was edged with a full gathered ruffle trimmed with lace and featured a ruffled chapel train.

Her close length four tiered veil of tulle illusion was held by a Spanish style tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, baby pink roses and baby's breath with long pink satin streamers.

Mrs. Harlan Ward was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Chris Maddin, Cheryl Minniear and Jeanne Minniear, sisters of the bride.

Merlin Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Michael Maddin, brother-in-law of the bride, Harlan Ward and Eddie Minniear, brother of the bride.

Jeffrey D. Jones played traditional wedding music.

The couple was honored at a reception and dance at the Ratt River High School gymnasium, Malta, following the ceremony.

The hall was decorated with pink and white.

The couple and members of the wedding party greeted guests before an austrian curtain backdrop of pink tulle with a lighted candleabra and draped with a valance of pale pink illuminated white grecian columns were placed on each side of the receiving line. The columns held white cherubs with bouquets of pink and white roses. Members of the party stood on a deep pink carpet.

William Jones, master of ceremonies, introduced the program of readings, musical numbers and a dance.

Guests were registered by Patty Harper at a round table with a pink satin floor-length underskirt and a white lace overlay.

Gifts were displayed on tables covered with white cloths. Mrs. Denny Whitaker, cousin of the bridegroom, assisted by Ellen Cooper, cared for the gifts. Michelle and Angie Maddin, nieces of the bride; Robert Minniear, brother of the bride; Rose Marie Minniear, sister of the bride; Kenny Neddo, nephew of the bridegroom; and Trasmia Neddo, niece of the bridegroom, were gift bearers.

The three tiered wedding cake was placed on a table covered with a pink satin underskirt and white lace overlay trimmed with pink velvet ribbon. The cake was veiled in white and was placed over a grecian fountain which had small pink roses floating in it. The cake was trimmed with white and pink roses and green leaves.

Six heart shaped cakes with pink roses and greenery were arranged around the base of the fountain. The cake was flanked by topiary trees with pink roses and silver candleabra holding pink tapers and small bouquets of pink roses and forget-me-nots.

Serving were Mrs. Clark Ward, Lauri Ann Taylor, Jeanette Durfee and Kathleen Durfee.

Guests attended from Burley, Almo, Malta, Almo, Elba and Hazelton in Idaho; Fillmore, Bonanza and Yost, Utah; Los Angeles, Calif.; Battle Mountain, Nev. and Coeur d'Alene, Wash.

Wealthy citizens continue lifestyles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wealthy citizens around here have not seriously altered their lifestyles to cope with the economic recession, which is working hardships on the poor and pinching the pocketbooks of the middle class.

They still have a lot of money and high incomes. True, they have lost in the stock market. Many investments have cost them "paper" profits and their business machinations may be reduced.

But for families earning upward of $50,000 annually, well-to-do up to those thousands of dollars the rich, the squeeze has not progressed from office to home.

There have been no backings of shiny new luxury automobiles in the two-car garages, no fewer chiseled steaks on the barbecue, no reduction in spending.

One wealthy Beverly Hills manufacturer, asked how the recession has affected his family, said, laughing, "We've asked the servants to cut down on the pilferage."

Marvin Hime, a Beverly Hills jeweler, shrugged. "Business is as good or better than it has been in the past 10 years. No complaints."

San Francisco attorney Jack Miller planned to ski in Switzerland again this year as he has for many years past. He continues to entertain at his suburban home and to commute the 50 miles in his Mercedes-Benz.

Unlike the Wall Street crash of 1929 when millionaires were diving out of buildings and wealthy men were reduced to selling apples on street corners, today's big rich have not put all their eggs in one basket.

"Smart people learned from the past," said one San Fernando Valley businessman who earns in the neighborhood of $100,000 yearly. "I've got real estate buildings, some municipal bonds, common stock, cash and other investments."

"My wife tells me prices are way up at the supermarket and in the better department stores. But I can assure that I don't even have to think about it."

Real estate is still selling briskly in the enclaves of Bel Air, Brentwood, Holmby Hills and Bel Air. They may not be moving as fast, but fast enough.

Real estate broker Mike Silverman said, "Homes selling for a matter of a million bucks and more are holding their price. The only difference we notice is there are more properties for sale than usual. Prices haven't dropped."

Department store parking lots are considerably less full than they were this time last year in the San Fernando Valley and most other suburbs.

DOCTOR DOLITTLE SPECIAL — FOOD FOR THE ANIMALS

Whether or not you like to talk to the animals, (walk with the animals, play with the animals, etc. . .) the animals would like to talk to you! Yes indeed folks, Swensen's Magic Markets have been authorized by Dr. Doolittle and the N.A.A.C.P. (National Association of Collared Pets) to talk to all owners (legitimate or adopted) of dogs, cats, pet skunks, pink panthers, Cheetas — not cheaters — raccoons, etc., urging them to buy a lot of animal food at Swensen's Low Price. This incredibly low priced pet food is preferred by 97.5% of all pets. Only one super-spoiled old dog and 2 fuss budgetary cats didn't like it (of the ones that could talk).

TF County files answer to jail inmates' suit

TWIN FALLS — An official answer to a suit brought by six Twin Falls County jail inmates against the county commissioners and sheriff has been filed.

The officials seek dismissal of the case.

Pres. Atty. William Hollifield has filed the answer with the US District Court in Boise, defending the jail facilities, prisoner treatment and sanitary conditions. The answer denies most of the 39 allegations of the complaint.

Defendants in the suit are Merl E. Leonard, county commission chairman, former chairman William L. Chenevix, and former commissioner William Wiseman. Plaintiffs are Samuel Dee Berry, Donald F. Guthrie, James L. Jones, Danny M. Cutler, Jerome Cree and Richard Punderberg.

The prisoners, represented by Victor Holoffo, Ketchum attorney, charged the county with 39 separate counts of providing inadequate jail facilities, unsanitary conditions, mistreatment of prisoners, and such additional items as failure to provide privacy, no telephone service, poor ventilation and lack of attention to medical needs.

In the answer filed this week, Hollifield asked for dismissal of the case on four specific defenses. He said the complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief could be granted and the court lacks jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action.

Other defenses listed include the argument the actions of the defendants in regard to jail operation are performed in line with the legal duties and responsibilities of the defendants. The defenses listed state the defendants are immune from liability under the doctrine of official immunity.

In answering specific allegations in the original complaint, in the fourth defense, the county attorneys denied a fact-finding committee which inspected the jail in September stated food preparation for the jail failed to meet state health standards. They deny other charges that bedding, ventilation and wiring were also found to be substandard, or toilet facilities unsanitary.

The defendants denied allegations of 20 or more prisoners sharing one cell designed for 12 and say at times 20 illegal aliens have been maintained at the jail for a period of a few hours only and have been housed in one cell.

The answer admits there is one shower per cell but deny charges prisoners are not permitted adequate opportunity to bath.

Prisoners are required to wash their own dishes, the answer states, and a commercial dishwasher has been ordered and will be in use in the jail kitchen in the near future.

As for medical costs, the answer states 1974 medical care for jail inmates cost $7,017.54. Jerome Cree received $4,101 in county medical bills and received some nine visits by his doctor while in jail, the answer shows.

No telephones are available in the cells, the answer admits, but prisoners may use the telephone on the jail floor of the building in emergencies.

The answer states in 1972 the county spent $9,347 to provide a new and more adequate visiting area for inmates. The county's answer also lists other improvements and policies at the jail since 1967 when Corde became sheriff.

Two sky divers leap from Space Needle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — "I felt like my heart was pounding in my throat when I jumped," one sky diver said. He and a companion had just leaped 520 feet without permission — from the Space Needle, the 1962 World's Fair landmark.

The unidentified parachutists prepared for their jump into a parking lot Tuesday by taking apart some of the protective wire mesh on the observation deck's outer rim.

A waitress at the Space Needle restaurant, which rotates immediately below the observation deck, saw the sky divers' parachutes opening as the men passed the restaurant windows.

Their jump set off an alarm system installed by Pentagram Corp., owner of the Space Needle. The system was installed after two persons committed suicide.

After they landed, the sky divers scooped in their equipment and hurried away from Seattle Center in a van.

They said they had jumped for adventure and also to sell the story and pictures. The source had made them a "standing offer for $500," they said.

Two men who accompanied the parachutists said they took pictures of the jump, one from ground level and the other from the observation deck.

"I can't think of any law they violated," one chutist said. "I can't see any law they violated, except the possibility of endangering people below them."

Lee Davis, Pentagram manager, said "I'm not going to prosecute these people, but we'll try to keep it from happening again."

today in brief

Jerome meet today

JEROME — The Jerome Planning Council will meet at 8 p.m. today at Wood Cafe.
The council has been in recess for the past six weeks and will resume work on the comprehensive plan for Jerome County. Objectives and goals will be discussed at tonight's meeting. The meeting is open to the public.

Patients transferred to Boise

TWIN FALLS — The two men who survived a light plane crash and a three-night stay in the desert near Ripert have been transferred to a hospital in Boise.
Mary Goe of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital staff said that Roy Rice and Nick Czizich had "sufficiently improved" to be taken by ambulance to St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise.
"They are coming along very well and are in good condition," she said. They left Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Theft probed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police today are investigating the theft of about $80 in Furman covering from a Twin Falls building supply house.
Dave Hutchinson, an employ of Builders Emporium, 226 Grandview Dr., told police two-and-a-half rolls of the Furman were stolen from the premises of the business between 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.
Value of the merchandise was $182, Hutchinson told police.

Filer man arrested

TWIN FALLS — A Filer man was arrested Wednesday by Twin Falls sheriff's officers on a grand larceny charge in connection with the alleged theft of a portable fireplace.
Edwin Ray, 30, was arrested about 4 p.m. Wednesday after Twin Falls police received a call that a portable fireplace had been stolen by an unidentified man from Volvo Inc., 1380 Highland Ave. E.
Employees of the store gave police the license number of a vehicle which had been used in the theft.
No lead has been set in the case. Ray is scheduled for arraignment later today.

Jackpot man injured

JACKPOT, Nev. — Henry (Al) Robinson suffered a scalped right leg while attending a first aid training session in the Jackpot fire station.
He accidentally upset a container of water being heated for coffee.
The training sessions are open to anyone who wishes to attend and are conducted by Fire Chief Jay Snyder.

TF man's argument rejected

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has rejected an argument by a Twin Falls man that he was denied his right to a speedy trial in a 1973 conviction of a drug offense.
The court said Wednesday that although there was a 14-month delay between issuance of the criminal complaint and the trial of Newell M. Lindsay, there had been no deprivation of the constitutional right.
While the period of delay was long enough to trigger an inquiry, the opinion written by Justice Allan G. Shepard said, the prejudice to Lindsay had been minimal.
Furthermore, the court said, Lindsay had not demanded an early trial.
And finally, the court noted Lindsay was extradited from Utah, which caused some delay, and there was no indication the prosecution deliberately attempted to delay proceedings.

Youth recaptured

POCATELLO (UPI) — The fifth youth who escaped Monday from the State Youth Training Center at St. Anthony was recaptured Wednesday by police after a high speed chase for 20 miles in Southern Idaho.
The 16-year-old juvenile led police from Pocatello to McCammon in a 1965 car that had been reported stolen. City officers, county and state cars gave chase but could not capture him until shortly after midnight.

3 bills approved

BOISE (UPI) — After 17 days of virtual silence, the House debated and approved three bills on the floor today — measures affecting city government in Twin Falls, Pocatello and Lewiston.
One of the measures would allow city manager cities by ordinance to provide for director election of the mayor. Another would permit city manager cities to require council candidates to run for designated seats.
A third bill approved by the House would increase to $5,000 from $2,500 goods cities and counties may buy without getting bids first.

Vocational ag teachers needed

MOSCOW (UPI) — The head of the Agricultural Education Department Wednesday said there are not enough vocational agriculture teachers to meet the demand.
Dr. Dwight Kinchey said last year more than 1,000 positions in the United States were not filled because of a vocational agriculture teacher shortage.

In 1974, he said, there were 12 agricultural departments closed in Washington state high schools because qualified teachers could not be found. One was closed in Idaho for the same reason.

Task force meet set

BOISE (UPI) — The initial meeting of the ad hoc task force to study the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974 will be held Monday in the Len B. Jordan State Office Building.
The task force has been charged with the responsibility to present to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus three alternatives available to Idaho for the implementation of the bill which was signed Jan. 4.

Hearing slated

GOODING — Preliminary hearing for James C. Lockhard, charged with first degree murder, is scheduled for 1:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Lockhard was arraigned Monday in Gooding magistrate court in connection with the shooting death Sunday morning of a fellow farm worker, John Burke, 36, Wendell.

Magistrate Russell Shaw, Jerome, appointed Philip Becker, Gooding county public defender, to represent Lockhard who was remanded to the sheriff's custody.

Sheriff Earl Brown said Lockhard came to his office shortly after the shooting Sunday about 7:20 a.m. and turned himself in. Officers found Mr. Burke dead at the farm with several bullet wounds.

Both men were employed by the Amhrine Distributing Co. which has a cattle and hog operation two miles east of Wendell.

TF cheese factory new plant

TF firm has new facilities

TWIN FALLS — The Swift Co. cheese plant has moved into a new $1 million facility south of Twin Falls.
Elmer Hagerty, manager, said open house will not be held for several months as many finishing touches still need to be done on the new cement block facility at 236 Washington St. S.

The old plant was located on Frank Lane since 1926 when the firm began operations here. The new building has about 24,000 square feet and is finished with ceramic tile.

The firm has the old plant and the land on which it is located up for sale.

Between 25 and 40 persons are employed at the plant and the cheese which is manufactured there is mostly sold in the western states, the manager said, with much of it shipped to the West Coast.

Contractors were Ullman Construction Co., with Home Plumbing and Smith Electric as subcontractors.

Potato sales show decline

BURLEY — A change in consumer habits and a national surplus of fresh potatoes has resulted in fewer sales of frozen and processed potatoes.

According to Robert K. Pedersen, president of Ore-Ida Foods, Boise, the downturn in sales has created a high inventory of processed food products, resulting in threatened lay-offs and shortened work weeks for some Cassia County food processing workers.

However, Pedersen said his company does not contemplate closing down production at its Burley plant. He said, Pedersen said Ore-Ida just brought on a new addition to its Ontario, Ore., plant, earlier this week.

But, Pedersen said Ore-Ida is watching its inventories closely, since there is a softening of the market.
Pedersen, who is also chairman of the American Frozen Food Institute, blamed the softened market on changing consumer habits and a surplus of fresh potatoes.

The consumer is avoiding more expensive products and "is stretching her food dollar," by wasting less, which is good in the long run," Pedersen stated.

"She is also using up her inventories in the pantry and buying 'fresh produce' in smaller quantities," thereby avoiding waste, he said.
At the same time, Pedersen said a record crop of potatoes and a resulting high inventory of fresh spuds has lowered the retail price of fresh potatoes. These low priced spuds are competing for the home-use dollar, he said.

On the other hand, the price of processed and frozen potato products remains high, Pedersen said, because of high prices on the price the processor was forced to pay growers. "We had to sign contracts at high prices which drove up the price of processed potatoes," he stated.

The future of the processed food industry is "related to the consumer, and her buying habits," Pedersen said.

Packaging, energy and labor are all going to cost more, so, "I don't see the price of foods coming down," he said. "She is going to have to adjust to high food costs," he predicted.

The proposals differ on the issue of state support.
The bill backed by State Sup. of Schools Roy Truly, the governor and most educational associations in the state calls for 100 per cent state funding of half-day kindergartens at $13 million cost.

But the program backed by some key supporters of kindergartens, including Barker and High, calls for two-thirds state funding and one-third local funding.

Under a system of part local support, kindergartens would be put "in a very unstable situation," Truly said, adding that the program would "depend on a board resolution from year to year."

"Once we take the step to pass kindergartens we should be able to depend upon kindergartens," he said.

High disagreed. "If it depended on 100 per cent state funding and you didn't get 100 per cent state funding, what would you do?" he said.

"I've always thought that kindergartens should be funded just like the rest of the public school program," which this year receives 65 per cent state support, High added.

But he did say that the legislature would have

NEA aides assist talks

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Teacher organizations in Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka counties will consult with special "organizers" before contract negotiations with school districts this year.
The advisers will be provided by the National Education Association (NEA), according to Ray Grubbs, president of the Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA), a group of 300 teachers and other certified school district employees.

Grubbs said the TFEA "hopefully" will begin contract negotiations early in March.

But before those formal talks, the NEA specialists will consult for two weeks each with the Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka teacher groups, he said.

The new advisory program will help the teachers "get a little more organized and sophisticated" in negotiations with school districts, Grubbs said.

The specialists "will stay in town for two weeks" and remain in "constant contact" with the teachers during that time, he added.

Although the advisers won't sit in on formal negotiations, they will help the teachers decide "what to take to the table," Grubbs said.

An NEA representative from Seattle will meet Sunday in Burley with all three teacher groups to set up the new program. Three special advisers will be sent later, according to Grubbs.

The specialists will "work on strengths and weaknesses" that were found in the teacher groups in an NEA survey last year, he said. They also will "advise us on bargaining aid" — teach "us how to read school budgets and see where the money is placed and how to use other negotiation tools," Grubbs said.

Asked about possible points of negotiation, Grubbs said the TFEA will be asking for pay raises greater than last year's 12 per cent inflation rate.

"It must be higher than that," he said. "Last year's raise was gobbled up by inflation."

The teachers will push "quite a few other, non-money items," he said, including reduced class sizes. Several teachers have advocated a lower teacher-pupil ratio, according to Grubbs. They would like to see a certain class size — more even. Some have a very heavy class load and others are fairly light.

Grubbs also told the Times-News that the TFEA is now publishing a monthly newsletter which is distributed to members. "We feel that if the teachers are informed they are going to be more involved with the association and are going to back the association in negotiations," he said.

"It will give the association a better image and strengthen it," he added.

To decide what type of kindergarten program, if any, to approve and then it would be up to the Finance Appropriations Committee to try to fully fund that program.

"I really prefer the local people to have a personal stake in their kindergarten," Barker said, lending his support to the idea of two-thirds funding.

Truly and Barker agreed on the value of the kindergartens. Testing in the Blaine area, which has had its own kindergarten program has shown kindergartens to be beneficial, Barker said.

Truly said numerous studies have proven the value of kindergartens. "I think that people have got past arguments over whether kindergartens are worthwhile," he said, adding that his year a kindergarten program has had widespread support on a grassroots level in the state.

Idaho is one of four states which has not yet adopted a kindergarten program.

Jerome farmers continue to oppose plant proposal

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — A proposal to construct a new waste water treatment plant southwest of Jerome continues to come under heavy fire from farmers in the area.

Over 75 people attended the second public hearing Wednesday night. The second hearing was called by the Jerome City Council after farmers in the proposed site area petitioned the city claiming they had not known of the first hearing and demanding a second one.

A majority of those attending were farmers who strongly opposed three different sewage treatment plant proposals presented by CH2M Engineers, Boise. Dave Meyer, representing CH2M, presented detailed information on the three proposals, noting that the third one had been designed following the first public hearing, and subsequent objections by area farmers.

The first proposal, which met with the strongest opposition, would require 300 acres of land for the secondary treatment plant and spray irrigation of the effluent. Estimated cost would be $4.1 million.

The second proposal was for a secondary treatment system and storage lagoon requiring 160 acres at a cost of $17 million with discharge in the summer into the canal system and storage in the winter. However, according to Meyer, the city has been told in writing by the Northern Canal Co. board that no further discharge into the canal will be allowed, making the second proposal unfeasible at this time.

Meyer said the third proposal would provide for secondary treatment of the sewage with the effluent pumped through a pressure line to the Snake River. It would require 40 acres and would not require storage lagoons.

"The proposed water line would follow the two mile road to the rim of the Snake River Canyon and would descend to the river just west of the Scott property ponds owned by the Fish and Game Department. There is one major problem with this proposal. There is the possibility of having to upgrade the system within a short period of time."

Meyer said the cost for the third proposal would be about $15 million, but would also require at least another $25,000 for the pipeline to the Snake River.

The city was told by the EPA they would not approve a grant if the plant was located at the old site because there was not enough area to provide for future expansion or a buffer zone. Also the present plant must remain in operation while the new plant is constructed," Everheart said.

He also said that the location of the present plant in relation to the growth of the community does not provide for a gravity flow and that expensive lift pump stations would have to be provided in order to handle the sewage if that site were used.

Meyer said the cost for the third proposal would be about $15 million, but would also require at least another $25,000 for the pipeline to the Snake River.

Fire kills 61 sheep

CASTLEFORD — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a barn, tools and equipment and 61 sheep Thursday morning on the Albert Dixon farm.

The Buhi Fire Department was called to the Dixon residence two miles east and two miles south of Castleford at 7:45 a.m., according to Duane Harner, Buhi fire chief.

Harner said Mrs. Dixon had received a call from Jim Kitzhaber, a neighbor, telling her the barn was on fire. She called the Buhi Fire Department.

The barn was completely destroyed and the sheep inside killed, Harner said, but firemen were able to contain the fire and prevent it from spreading to surrounding buildings.

Harner said luckily there was no wind this morning. The house on the farm was some distance away and was not threatened.

Destroyed in the fire were the sheep including some registered Hampshire and Suffolk ewes as well as grade ewes and lambs.

Barn and animal loss was reported at about $1,200 and tools, equipment and feed inside the barn at $1,500.

Chief Harner said investigation is continuing into the cause of the blaze.

The Environmental Protection Agency has set a goal of 1981 for zero discharge of pollutants into receiving waters in the country," Meyer said.

He said this would mean that Jerome would not be able to continue discharging into the river and an alternate system, presumably the spray irrigation system, would then have to be provided.

"At this time we are checking into the possibility of locating 40 acres along the two mile road west of Jerome which would also be the route the pipeline would take," Meyer said.

A majority of persons attending the hearing were in favor of the third proposal, but were opposed to locating the plant along the two mile road. The crowd continuously asked why the present site could not be used and several times accused the engineers of not studying in detail the possibility of using the present sewer site.

Meyer said several times that the present plant area is not large enough and that the two mile road area would provide for gravitational flow for a large portion of the city.

It was suggested by those attending that the city buy the fairgrounds, tear down the buildings and build the treatment plant there.

Marshall Everheart, Jerome City Councilman, said that in the beginning of the study one and one-half years ago, the present treatment plant site was considered.

"The city was told by the EPA they would not approve a grant if the plant was located at the old site because there was not enough area to provide for future expansion or a buffer zone. Also the present plant must remain in operation while the new plant is constructed," Everheart said.

He also said that the location of the present plant in relation to the growth of the community does not provide for a gravity flow and that expensive lift pump stations would have to be provided in order to handle the sewage if that site were used.

'Streakers' suspended

TWIN FALLS — Two boys have been suspended from Twin Falls High School for "streaking" and school officials plan to take "further," apparently more severe, action against them today.

The youths were suspended for five days in connection with a "streaking" incident Monday night during a girls' basketball game in the high school gymnasium. Two "streakers" raced down the sidelines, across the court and out a door.

Twin Falls High School Principal Frank Charlton confirmed today that the boys had been suspended Tuesday, and said, "We're going to take some further action."

A meeting with the boys and their parents was scheduled this morning, according to Charlton.

He would not specify what "further action" would be taken and refused to comment on a report that the school district plans to file charges of indecent exposure against the youths.

He also declined comment on possible expulsion of the students.

Asked if the school district plans to take strict disciplinary action against the boys to discourage future "streaking" incidents, Charlton said, "I think that speaks for itself."

Declining comment on most questions, Charlton said, "Everytime you write these things up, you advertise it. After this action, I'm not going to comment on it again and don't call me for a comment. I think it's an advertisement, regardless of what your feelings are. In the future, I will not talk on the telephone."

He said "publication of the incident and disciplinary action would not help discourage future incidents. The high school students will know what we want them to know" about the consequences of such exploits, he said.

Last year it was brought up in the House, defeated on a 31-34 vote and did not make it to the Senate," Truly said.

"It's nothing new. It's just that I hope this is the year," Truly said.

He did not predict an intensive lobbying effort in support of kindergartens.

"This thing has been presented to the legislature year after year. I think the people back home will speak to the question," he said.

Hammer accident claims 3

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — An Idaho state policeman, his wife and son died Wednesday in a traffic accident on an icy road near Hammer, Idaho.

Three other persons were injured in the crash. Wendell Galt, 29, his wife, Janet, 27, and son, Durin, 7, died from injuries they received in the crash. Two sons, Chris and Michael were reported in fairly good condition at an Idaho Falls hospital.

The Galt car collided head-on with a vehicle driven by William Birmingham of Billings, Mont., after one of the vehicles slid on the icy Interstate 20, about 10 miles north of Idaho Falls. Birmingham suffered a broken leg in the accident.

Twin Falls, Minico slate action in home district

The Twin Falls Bruins and Minico Spartans take a rare look at home district competition this weekend with the two SIC clubs slated to meet Friday night at the Bruin gymnasium.

Saturday Twin Falls will be home to Jerome's Tigers while Minico returns to Rupert to entertain the Burley Bobcats in the traditional rivalry highlight of the area.

The Bruins are 8-3 and Minico 2-9 in the SIC but Coach Ron Watson isn't thinking about coasting into victory.

"I feel that Minico and Jerome will present something like Nampa did last weekend. They haven't had the success they anticipated or wanted when the season started and they're starting to get really hungry this time of year. We expect a rough time and a lot of pressure from them," he said.

Minico's in-district success has been consistent in that the Spartans have played double overtime against both Burley and Twin Falls, winning the first and dropping the latter.

Since that Burley victory, which evened Minico up at 3-3, the Spartans have gone 1-7. Meanwhile, Burley has gone 7-2, including a big win over Twin Falls.

Even Burley Coach Ivan Davis believes the key to beating his team is stopping them from getting their running game going. "We've built up some ferocious momentum at times in the past month and one-half," he agreed during a talk a week ago.

It has been the lack of momentum that has killed Minico. The Spartans have slumped so close to just about every team but over the last 12 minutes or so just seem to drift a little farther back on the scoreboard.

Coach Gerald Mayes is losing sleep trying to find ways to motivate this club.

Losing momentum is something that has dimmed Jerome's chances for a winning season. The Tigers seemed to get things together in mid-December and scrapped to five wins in six outings. But the Tigers have dropped their last four outings.

Not hurting the Tigers is a full 13-day layoff. If rainstorm doesn't set in, Jerome should

Oakley, Carey continue bids for league crowns

Oakley and Carey can make giant strides for conference titles while Gooding and Wood River battle to stay in the SCIC chase Friday during a 17-game weekend basketball schedule.

Oakley will be at Murtaugh in a Magic Valley Conference battle that puts a "must" on Murtaugh. A loss would leave the Devils three full games off the pace with four to play. Conversely, Oakley would keep its one-game lead, move to 11-1 and have its last three games at home to protect against any would-be spoilers.

Carey, Magic Valley's only undefeated team, could pump its Northridge league lead to three full games over runner-up Richfield with five to play. Richfield could cut the difference to one game and still have a hope of repeating the feat in the season finale. With no surprises in-between, the Tigers could get a tie. That one comes off at Richfield.

In the SCIC, Buhl, which needs a rest after playing five games — and losing two — in seven days, will be home in Filer Saturday night and protecting a one-game lead. Friday night, Wood River will be at Jerome while Gooding is at Filer.

Wood River and Gooding are tied for second one game behind Buhl and another loss probably would eliminate that team from contention.

In the Little Five Conference, Valley will be at Wendell, hoping to avenge a mid-week one-point loss, while Kimberly travels to Shoshone. Pace-setting Glens Ferry, holding a two-game lead, sits Friday out but will be home to Wendell Saturday.

Half River, one-game behind Oakley, in the Magic Valley, hop, makes its long trek to Hagerman where the Pirates, having had couple of weeks' night to rest to make things interesting again. Hansen, still running hot and cold, will entertain Deco which has been showing well of late.

Added to the Carey-Richfield game is the Northridge battle of Camas County at Dietrich. It could be a fast-paced affair.

The smallest Saturday night of the season thus far awaits fans. Play will be at Buhl in the lone SCIC contest.

The Little Five finds Valley at Kimberly in one of those traditional things — while Wendell is at Glens Ferry.

Dietrich leaves conference play to entertain Rockland while Bliss will be at Carey.

Volleyball player wins girls portion of superstar tourney

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — A woman who many regard as the best volleyball player in the U.S. but who has earned "Just zilih" in sports the past four years is the champion of the first women's superstars competition.

Mary Jo Peppier, of El Paso, Tex., took home the first winners' trophy and prize money totaling $40,000 Wednesday in competition so close that it wasn't decided until the final event — a tricky obstacle course.

Miss Peppier, who recently turned pro in the newlyestablished International Volleyball Association, took first places in roasting, the softball throw and basketball shooting, and came in second in the half-mile bike race. She finished with 41 points, tops in the 17-woman field.

"I just don't believe I won this tall and attractive brunette. 'I've never been lucky in my life'."

Lucky may have been the word for it in the last event. Basketball's Karen Logan needed only a second place to catch the winners' trophy, but drew a penalty when she lost her grip on the horizontal bars.

Although Miss Logan, captain of the Pink Panthers women's basketball team, finished second overall with 38 points and $13,000 in prize money, including first-place finishes in tennis and the 60-yard dash, almost was not quite good enough. After the obstacle course penalty, she wandered off into a parking lot and wept.

player with the El Paso-Juarez Sol team in the IVA which forbids her to state how much she makes.

Miss Peppier also said the superstars program, which pits athletes in events outside their own specialties, will encourage other women to go into professional sports.

However, she doesn't think the girls should be allowed to compete against the guys.

"In the skill events we could probably do better, but the men run faster than we could," she said. "I don't think we could really compete against them."

A skiing champion Kiki Cutter placed fourth with 34 points and $3,400 and Laura Ching, the surfer, from Hawaii, finished fifth with 24 points and took home $2,400.

Richman says Roberts deserves honors

BY MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Let's get one thing straight right off. If ever anybody deserved to be in Baseball's Hall of Fame, it's Robin Roberts. He did everything he was supposed to do and then some. He worked in the salt mines and toiled in the vineyards for the Philadelphia Phillies mostly, playing away doggedly at his trade for 19 years.

He was a 20-game winner six consecutive years and had the same incredible control over a baseball Muhammad Ali has over a listening audience. He was the perfect gentleman with a trail in that never once did he ever make a pitch without first cleaning his fingers and straightening the leg of his trousers.

What I'm trying to say is that Robin Roberts gets my vote for the Hall of Fame, every year. He's going to keep getting it as long as I keep voting because, to me, anyway, he belongs in there with the best-of-the-best the same way Bob Lemon does, but I also think he should ease up and relax a little.

He shouldn't allow himself to get carried away by some of his more fervent Philadelphia well-wishers, who are so upset over his missing out by a mere nine votes in this last election that they're calling the balloting a poll-ish joke and throwing around hints that maybe the vote isn't on the up and up because only one man, Jack Lang, secretary of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, counts the ballots in a closed room.

Next thing you know, someone's going to claim the voting is rigged, and I can just hear Babe Ruth laughing and saying, wherever he is, "those guys down there are never gonna get to heaven that way."

If anybody has a license to holler about the voting, it seems to me Bob Lemon has, but he never does.

Take a look at some of his figures. He pitched only 13 years, six less than Robin Roberts, and was a 20-game winner seven times, one more time than Roberts, who pitched six years longer. Moreover, Lemon was one of the finest hitting pitchers ever, a fellow who ranked with Charlie Hitting, Wes Ferrell and Don Newcombe in that department, and was an exceptional fielder as well. He has been waiting much longer to get into the Hall of Fame than Roberts, having retired as an active player in 1938, eight years before Roberts did.

Understandably, Robin Roberts is getting a little anxious.

He sees a fellow like Ralph Kiner — make it — and the memories in that department, and was among the top 10 hitters in the league average-wise only twice. He doesn't knock Kiner's election, but he thinks, and again it's perfectly understandable, what about me?

Roberts says, he's guessing whether those writers, voting now actually know the records and backgrounds of the players they're voting for. He says maybe they should condense the size of the voting group, make it smaller, and select a neutral committee to get up a summary of each player and include it with the ballot.

Robin Roberts wonders about the current writers. This isn't anything new.

CSI nears regional meet with victory over TVCC

ONTARIO — College of Southern Idaho virtually clinched a spot in the regional tournament and moved to within one victory of hosting the playoffs Wednesday night when the Golden Eagles dropped Treasure Valley 61-45.

Eagles, who have now won 16 in a row — six short of the school record — could wrap it up by winning their next outing at Ricks Wednesday. A victory there would give the Eagles an undefeated in-region record with only North Idaho to play and put at least two losses on the other contenders. The winner will have a berth and host the playoffs.

CSI is looking forward to the weekoff as the travel to Logan Tuesday night, the two-point victory and then the tour to Ontario Wednesday had an effect. The Eagles, who defeated Treasure Valley by 51 points last week, had to go all out to win this one. And Coach Bud Grant wasn't pleased with some of the mistakes his tired charges made.

Treasure Valley led only in the opening minutes at 4-0 with CSI coming back into an 8-4 tie. Ken Davis then hit five straight points and midway through the half CSI appeared on the verge of a breakout at 19-12. Mike Woodman's 10 points kept TVCC in contention to that point.

But then CSI was hit by four traveling calls in five possessions and lost the scoring string. TVCC came back at 21-18 and then 25-22 before Jeff Wiggam hit the last bucket of the half for a 37-22 advantage.

Davis opened the second half with seven points to shoot CSI ahead 34-24 and he and Yoder then combined to make it 37-24. Davis' bucket there represented his 20th point.

Treasure Valley steadied at a 9-10 point deficit for a couple of minutes before the Eagles stretched out to 47-32.

After that the Chukars, dropping their third decision to the Eagles, could get no closer than 10 points.

College grappling

JEROME — Boise State's wrestling team, fresh from a 24-16 decision over powerful Idaho State, will meet Weber State's matmen at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Jerome High School gymnasium.

Boise State won five matches with three ties against Idaho State Wednesday and nailed it down when 450-pound Mark Buttick won the heavyweight match.

The event is sponsored by the Jerome-Tigers boosters.

Pastorini has help for greatness now

HOUSTON (UPI) — First round draft choice Don Hardeman arrived in town Wednesday and announced he will make Houston Oilers' quarterback Dan Pastorini All Pro next year.

"I catch, and I do everything," the Texas 361 fullback said. "I'm Don Hardeman. I don't compare myself to anyone."

"You may be surprised to know that this time next year you'll be interviewing me for NFL Rookie of the Year."

The actions of the 230-pounder, whose legs looked like they could carry him to a 9.6 in the 100 as he claimed, acted like Muhammad Ali early in his pro boxing career. Hardeman even wrote a poem about Ali, describing the boxer's refusal to be drafted during the Vietnam war and his temporary banishment from the ring.

Hardeman said he was an Al fan, but not a follower.

"I am a black Baptist and I don't join no groups," he said.

The Oilers went for receivers in the last rounds of the collegiate draft Wednesday.

Shoshone will host district A-3 meet

WENDELL — Shoshone was again named the site for the fourth district A-3 basketball tournament which will be run on split weekends the last two weekends of this month.

A-3 coaches kept the status quo Wednesday night when they met in Wendell. The tournament will run Feb. 19 through 22 and resume Feb. 27 and 28 and March 1. The jayvee tournament will be run in conjunction with the varsity affair.

The participating schools also voted to maintain prices at last year's levels and selected Ron Beck and Art Watkins to handle the jayvee officiating.

The tournament pairings will give byes to the one-two teams in the Little Five Conference (with Decio's record figured in) while the other four will meet at 10 a.m. Feb. 16 in Wendell to draw for pairings of the first two games.

In other action, Ken Carothers, Shoshone superintendent and district representative on the state board of control, announced the format for the state tournament which will be held in Nampa. At state, the sixth district champions will meet the winner of the third and fourth district playoff teams. Second district champion goes against third district runner-up; fourth district champion meets second district runner-up and third district winner vs. sixth district runner-up.

Carothers said this district A-3 runner-up team will play the third-place team from the Boise area in a one-game elimination at 9 p.m. March 4 in Mountain Home. It will be preceded by an A-2 playoff between the third and fifth districts.

Carothers also noted Hagerman would definitely be in the A-3 classification next year, completing its year-of-grace currently. He added a proposal from the east, if accepted by the state, also would affect this area.

Currently the fifth district has only Grace and Westside in

Kansas dumps Colorado 81-59

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Playing much of the game with reserves, Kansas dumped defenseless Colorado, 81-59, Wednesday night in the Big Eight.

The victory moved Kansas to 3-1 and dropped Colorado to 0-4 in conference play. The loss stretched Colorado's overall defeats to 11 straight.

The Jayhawks leaped ahead at the start and dominated both boards.

Donnie Von Moore and Dale Greenlee led the scoring for Kansas with 17 and 15 points, respectively.

If the latter proposal was accepted, the sixth district would be in a constant playoff.

Dantley clings to point lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame continues to cling to the lead in the NCAA major college individual scoring derby, but a new leader has emerged this week in free throw shooting.

Doug Brookins of Creighton, a 6-foot-9 senior, has taken over the top spot in free throw percentage, according to official statistics released today by the National Collegiate Sports Services for games through Jan. 25. Brookins has connected on 78 of 87 free throw attempts for an 89.7 percentage, which is 800 better than Denver's George Zunbro.

Dantley, a 6-5 sophomore, sparked in Notre Dame's upset of UCLA last Saturday and is averaging 32.1 points a game for 15 contests. All-America David Thompson of North Carolina State is second with a 31.5 average and Bob McCurdy of Richmond ranks third with a 30.5 average.

Tom Cutler of Western Michigan is the leader in field goal percentage with a .602 average and Glenn Mosley of Seton Hall is the top rebounder with an average of 16.3 retrieves per game.

North Carolina State remains the leader in offense with an average of 98.2 points per game and UTexas El Paso continues as the top defensive squad, having allowed opponents only 54.7 p.p.g.

North Carolina boasts the nation's best field goal accuracy (.548) and Butler is the best in free throw percentage (.777).

Top-ranked Indiana is beating its opponents by an average of 26.2 points a game to rank first in that category and Northern Illinois is outbounding its rivals by 12 per game for the No. 1 spot in that department.

Bonnie's top St. John's

OLEAN, N.Y. (UPI) — St. Bonaventure made 15 of its first 17 shots from the field to take an early 16-point lead and went on to beat St. Francis (N.Y.) 108-89 Wednesday night.

The Brown Indians took an early 22-16 lead before St. Francis' 6-8 junior center Jerome Williams led a Terrier comeback bid that put them within nine points. But St. Francis could never get any closer.

Lakers rally past Jazz

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Gail Goodrich scored 34 points and Los Angeles rallied in the second half to beat the New Orleans Jazz, 112-108, Wednesday night.

The Lakers trailed 69-48 at the half, but outscored the Jazz in both periods of the second half.

Pete Maravich was high scorer for the Jazz with 32 points.

New Orleans took its half-time lead after holding the Lakers to only 14 points in the second period.

Truckers count on retreads. You can count on retreads for your family car.

Truckers roll on retreads because they're more economical. They know that retreads will last long and hold up to the long runs at maximum highway speeds.

One of the most economical and longest wearing retreads you can buy for your family car is the Tru Bond from Big O. They're made in one of the newest factories in the northwest by skilled craftsmen. And double checked six times to insure durability. They're like new tires but at half the cost.

They're built better than most retreads. Backed better than most new tires.
